ARTICLE VII. DISCIPLINARY PROCEDURES

SECTION 7.1: EMPLOYEE DISCIPLINE

The Employer agrees that discipline shall be imposed only for just cause. The Employer’s customary manner of discipline is progressive. That is, generally speaking, for violations of organization policies or infractions of organization rules that are not serious, the Employer will first counsel the employee orally, explaining what he or she did wrong and reminding the employee of the particular policy or rule. If the violation is repeated or another violation occurs, the Employer will generally move to a more formal written reprimand that goes into the employee’s personnel file. Repeated violations, or another infraction, will likely lead to suspension. The ultimate discipline, of course, is termination. The sequence of progressive discipline action should occur in the following steps:

- Oral reprimand
- Written reprimand
- Suspension followed by probation
- Discharge

Minor Infractions:

The Employer takes all violations of organization policies and rules seriously. Obviously, though some infractions are less serious than others. For instance, first- or second-time violations such as the following are more likely to result in counseling (an oral reprimand) or a written warning that behavior must improve. Keep in mind that these are merely some of the infractions the Employer characterizes as minor. Not all such infractions are listed here. Note, too, that there may be situations in which the following minor infractions occur that result in those infractions being considered much more serious.

- Absence
- Tardiness
- Overtime work without permission
- Unauthorized use of organization equipment, time, or property
- Horseplay, practical jokes, or other disorderly conduct
- Negligence in observing safety rules
- Violations of rules established in the organization handbook
- Gambling

Verbal abuse of any employee
Interference with another employee's work
Damage or destruction of organization property through careless acts
Argumentative dialogue on social media during working hours
Not wearing the minimal required personal protective equipment.

Serious Infractions:

Some violations of organization policies are much more serious and may result in immediate suspension or discharge. The following is not an exhaustive list, but provides some examples of what the Employer considers to be serious infractions:

Violations of the organization policy against harassment, including sexual harassment
Unauthorized or excessive absenteeism or tardiness
Possession, distribution, or use of drugs or alcohol on organization premises or organization time, including in the employee's car on organization's parking lot
Blatant negligence or willful conduct that results in damage or loss to machinery or equipment
Possession of weapons of any kind on organization premises
Falsification of employment applications or personnel records or lying about credentials
Theft, fraud, or sabotage against another employee, a client/citizen, or the organization
Misappropriation of organization assets
Assault, fighting, or other conduct that puts another employee at risk
Insubordination or refusal to comply with reasonable instructions or duties
Threat, intimidation or coercion of another employee or manager
Acting in clear conflict with organization interests
Release of confidential organization or client/citizen information
Willfully Allowing CDL credentials to become invalid. Only if you are required a CDL per your Job Classification.

The designated City representative shall respond to the grievance in writing within five (5) business days after receipt of the grievance.

Step 3 – Appeal to the Board of Works. Should the grievance remain unresolved, the Union representative may, within ten (10) business days after receipt of the response in Step 2, submit the grievance in writing to the Board of Works. The Union may skip Step 3 and proceed directly to Step 4.

Step 4 – Arbitration. If the decision of the Board of Works is not acceptable to either of the parties, the dissatisfied party (either the Employer or the Union) within thirty (30) days after receipt of the Board's decision, may give the other party notice of intent to submit the grievance to an impartial arbitrator who shall be selected by mutual agreement; or, if such agreement is not reached, by alternately striking the names from a list of seven (7) arbitrators submitted by the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service (FMCS), with the first party to strike to be determined by lot. (The first strike shall alternate between the parties if successive cases are advanced to arbitration during the term of this contract). It is agreed that the decision of the arbitrator shall be final and binding on all parties and that the arbitrator's fees shall be borne equally by the parties. The arbitrator shall have no power to add to or subtract from the provisions of this Agreement.

Time limits – Time limits may be extended by mutual agreement of the parties. Failure by the employee or the Union to follow time limits, unless so extended, shall nullify the grievance. Failure by the Employer to follow the limits, unless so modified, shall cause the grievance to move to the next level automatically.

SECTION 8.3: GRIEVANCE FORMS

The written grievance required under this Article shall be on a form which shall be provided by the Union.
